

URGENT VIRTUAL OPPORTUNITY for CADETS

MISSION

The Air Force needs to accelerate the commercial market for advanced air mobility vehicles — yes, “flying cars.”

HOW DO CADETS FIT?

Great leaders look everywhere for new ideas. For the Air Force, that means asking CAP cadets for answers:

- ✈️ How could America build powerful, intelligent flying orbs?
- ✈️ What problems could America solve with such a fleet?
- ✈️ How could CAP use flying orbs in its real-world humanitarian and homeland security missions?

ACTIVITY SCOPE

Participating cadets will:

- ✈️ Learn from Agility Prime’s recorded and documentary content about emerging career fields
- ✈️ Participate in webinars and consume as brain food ideas that industry, the military, and universities have for advanced air mobility vehicles.
- ✈️ Produce a video (10-min. max) making their case for flying orb designs, manufacturing standards, deployment practices, problem-sets, or even some other innovation nobody has yet classified.

SQUADRON TEAM

The activity is open to all current CAP cadets. Squadrons organize teams of 3 to 8 cadets supported by at least adult (SM, CSM, AEM)

Flying cars could rewrite how the Air Force and civil society do logistics and transportation... Agility Prime is the program to help usher the 'not yet' into the 'now.'

DR. WILL ROPER, Assistant Secretary of the Air Force

ENVIRONMENT & DURATION

This activity is entirely virtual and concludes in mid-August. Teams decide how much time they are willing and able to devote to the project, anywhere from 4 hours over a couple sessions to 40 hours or more over several sessions is envisioned.

TUITION

Free

COMPETITIVE ELEMENT

CAP and Air Force officials will evaluate team video presentations against three criteria: originality of ideas (50%), clarity of content (30%), and creativity in delivery (20%).

PRIZES

The three top teams will each receive an intermediate-level, recreational drone.
