The Cadet's Role as an
AMBASSADOR of the DRUG-FREE ETHIC

Survey data shows that CAP cadets are much less likely to use drugs or alcohol than ordinary youth.

As a cadet, use CAP activities, including National Character Day, as opportunities to recommit yourself to being drug-free.

Even more, use your leadership skills to spread the drug-free message to friends and family who are not cadets. Be an ambassador, a positive role model for all. Stand up against drugs and help others do the same.

The U.S. Air Force Academy's
ARDA Character Model

Each experience, no matter what it is, affords us a chance to learn about leadership and character. But you can't just sit back and let stuff happen to you, you have to reflect. You have to use brainpower and really consider what it is you're learning.

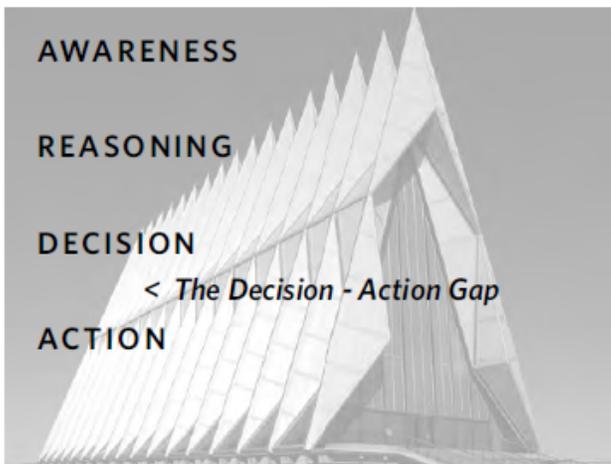

How do you do that? The U.S. Air Force Academy says we need to "engage with the world as potential leaders and people of character." The Academy recommends using the ARDA model:

JOURNALING II Write on two of the following topics:

- A. What does the Character Challenge really teach us? What are some of the leadership and character traits on display?
- B. What was the most powerful thing you heard or saw during the Character Challenge?
- C. Is it important to challenge yourself in regards to leadership? To character? Why?
- D. Is it possible to get hurt at this activity? How? And how would drugs or alcohol affect your performance?
