EAA Young Eagles Membership Information

Congratulations on your first aircraft orientation flight. We hope you enjoyed the experience and that it piques your interest in aviation. With this achievement comes a complimentary student membership in Experimental Aircraft Association (EAA) for cadets under the age of 18. When you join, you qualify to become an EAA Young Eagle and will be entitled to benefits called the Young Eagles Flight Plan.

Young Eagles Flight Plan Includes:

- Free EAA Student Membership
- Free online Sporty's Learn to Fly Course (Including FAA written reimbursement)
- Free First Flight Lesson
- Flight Training Scholarships

You can use this link, <https://www.eaa.org/shop/Membership/Join.aspx>, to join EAA as a student member and access your free Young Eagles Flight Plan benefits. Be sure to select the "Student" tab, and then select "Sign up!" After entering your "New Member Details," you have to select whether you have a "Sporty's / Student Activation Code" or not. If you do not have one, then tick the box, "I do not have my Activation code." This box is under the name "Sporty's." You will be prompted to enter your "Young Eagle Flight" information. Use your 1st CAP Orientation Flight details to complete this step. We hope you enjoyed your Civil Air Patrol flight experience, as well as the EAA Young Eagle Flight Plan benefits you have earned.
